Far Reaching Program Set for Congress

PROFITEERS WILL BE TARGET FOR BIG TAX BILL

Proposed Legislation Also Would Prevent Hoarding Of Food Supplies

Emergency Power Will Be Requested For President In Labor Disputes

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12—A far-reaching legislative program for the regular session of congress—contingent upon repeal of the neutrality act arms embargo in a special session—was reported today to be under consideration by high administration officials.

The program, which is said to have been discussed in administration departmental councils as a result of the situation created by the European war, would be designed to meet problems arising both from the war and from a war boom in business.

Proposals Studied

Chief proposals studied by experts, some of which have officially been described as possibilities, include:

1. A drastic war profits tax designed to prevent profiteering should the allies make huge purchases in this country at high prices.

2. Legislation to prevent hoarding of food and prohibiting profiteering in staple commodities.

3. Increased control over transportation so the administration could prevent congestion or delay in delivering supplies both for domestic and export business.

4. Strengthening government power to combat espionage or sabotage. Labor disputes in essential industries, somewhat in the manner of operation of the World War labor peace machinery.

Administration officials admitted that the war situation has caused them to study many possibilities in order to protect normal business life of the country and cushion it against the shock of an expiring war boom. They insisted, however, that all legislative proposals now are in a tentative stage.

Heavy Tax Considered

While American individual income surtaxes are among the highest in the world in the high brackets, discussion of an 80 percent excess profits tax above normal profits, to be applied to firms selling war materials, was said to be under discussion.

Administration tax experts were represented as holding that repeal of the undistributed profits tax might make an additional levy desirable if a real boom develops, in order to prevent hoarding of profits by corporations.

President Roosevelt already is on record as favoring legislation to

SOLDIERS RECALLED TO WORK IN FRENCH FIELDS

GENEVA, Sept. 12—To till the fields rather than fight in the trenches, two French army classes, most of them farmers, will be sent home, it was reported in Switzerland today.

Because of the nature of the war in the fortresses along the French Maginot and German Limes lines, a force of the size that France has mobilized (estimated at 8,000,000 men) is not necessary, according to information here.

BRITAIN MOVES OFFICE FORCES OUT OF LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 12—Coincident with the first formal admission that British troops and Royal Air Force planes have arrived in France, the British government announced today that a limited number of administrative departments are being removed from London for safety.

The ministry of information announced that steps were being taken to quarter outside of the capital "a limited number of departmental staffs who can perform their duties away from the center of government without loss of efficiency."

Between 7,000 and 8,000 government workers will leave London, it was understood, but the ministry of information insisted there was no question of the whole government taking to the country.

"It is obviously desirable in the national interest," the ministry said, "that there should be a certain measure of decentralization."

"None of the departments concerned are being evacuated wholly."

A spokesman insisted that the move was purely a measure of precaution comparable to the evacuation of children from London. No minister and no office directly concerned with war-time activities will leave London, it was said.

NINE SUBS FAIL TO BAG DODGING BRITISH LINER

NEW YORK, Sept. 12—A plucky British sea captain who zig-zagged his liner safely past nine German submarines, one reportedly "off Nantucket," on an Atlantic crossing, docked his ship with its cargo of 441 passengers and $17,500,000 in gold, at New York today after the brief comment that "it was a nice trip."

Capt. Edgar Wallace Moulton, commanding the liner Arandora, was under orders and reluctant to talk but pins on a chart in his cabin, and other officers of the Arandora, told the story.

The pins marked the locations where submarines had been sighted and sub officers revealed that passengers "hadn't realized how close" the liner had come to submarines.

The Arandora left Southampton 48 hours before Britain declared war and after that her course was purposely erratic and far south of regular shipping lanes.As the Arandora carefully picked her way along, her crew slapped gray paint on her funnels, superstructure and as much of the hull as they could reach. Portholes, windows and deck door glass was painted dark blue and doorways were shielded by canvas.

The ship was blacked out at night, smoking was prohibited on decks and life rafts were unshipped from the boat deck and held in readiness for instant use.

Before starting a motor trip to Cambridge, Mass., with his wife and two daughters, Landis advised opposing counsel he will base his decision on two points.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 12—Identified as San Francisco's mysterious "hypnotic kisser," a man listed as Jesse Ray Mowery, 46, was held by police today for extradition to California.

Police Chief William Quinn of San Francisco telegraphed Inspector of Detectives Frank Ferretti of Atlantic City that Mowery, suspected of bigamous affairs in several states, skipped a $10,000 bail bond in San Francisco while awaiting trial on a grand theft indictment returned February 5, 1938.

After his departure from the West coast, two women who claimed they were his wives told police his kisses completely overpowered them and imbued them with "strange desires" and "peculiar feelings." Mowery was arrested early Sunday morning at a popular boardwalk night club in company with two socially prominent women whose names have been withheld. Detective Fred Moore made the arrest after reading an article in a detective magazine concerning the West coast Osculatory Svengali whom he thought Mowery resembled.

FATHER QUIZZED, FAILS TO HELP IN DEATH PROBE

DEVON, Pa., Sept. 12—Police questioned Clayton Platt, Jr., today in an effort to "clear up some points" in the fatal shooting of his son, Clayton Platt, 3d, grandson of former U. S. Senator William Gibbs McAdoo.

The elder Platt, released in custody of his brother, John O. Platt, was unable to throw much light on the tragedy, detectives said. Young Clayton was fatally shot Sunday night in his Devon home following a "drinking party" in which the father participated, police learned.

The boy had been on a rampage all afternoon and evening and was carrying a .22 caliber rifle," Platt told police. "He may have pulled the trigger or the shot may have been fired accidentally."

After a display of strength at the opening in the wake of yesterday's sensational rise, the list began to retreat as selling pressure increased.

A number of stocks were able to buck the trend but the general trend was irregularly lower.

AUTO INDUSTRY NOT AT PEAK, SLOAN'S OPINION

Higher Degree Of Prosperity Looms, Says Head Of General Motors

BARRIERS ARE CITED

Reservoir Of Demand Seen In Shortage Of Inventory Of Present Cars

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 — The maximum of growth of the automotive industry has yet to be reached, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors, declared today in a dividend message to the company stockholders.

"There does not seem to be any justification for believing that the automotive industry has reached the maximum of its growth," he reported "while its development cannot be expected to continue at the rapid rate that characterized the earlier years, there is every reason to believe that as soon as our national policies permit the resumption of a normal upward trend in the national income, the automotive industry will enjoy, and at an accelerated rate, a degree of that prosperity."

The volume of automotive sales varies as the national income goes up and down, he stated.

"In periods of lowered national income prospective purchasers become conservative in their outlook. They are inclined to continue to use cars already in their possession," Sloan pointed out. "Conversely, when business is improving, customers become more liberal in their purchases as their confidence in the future increases, hence the number of new cars sold increases rapidly."

Stimulation of the used car market, and "important" factor in the sale of new cars, is also brought about by a higher income, he said, adding:

"When the economic barriers that have been erected during the past few years against the expansion of enterprise are removed and business can go forward with confidence as to its future opportunities, there will be assured to the automotive industry a reservoir of demand represented by the shortage of inventory of car miles now existing."

ASHVILLE

News, we think to many, is that the local Ashville band is no more, at least in name, having been taken over by the Veterans of Foreign Wars' organization with headquarters at Circleville.

The newly named band was out at Community Park Monday in a practice marching drill under direction of the leader, Fred Hines.

Also along with this practice drill, twenty-four of the band members' measurement were taken for new uniforms carrying the insignia of VFW. Too, this organization has purchased, up to date, about a dozen new instruments needed for a fully equipped 40-piece band, in ability proficient enough to perform in any kind of company.

What we said in our column in Friday evening's Herald was not meant to do any one an injury but a mere jest on our part. In our more than fifty years about a print shop from devil to boss, we have never intentionally done anyone an injury and it is too late in life to begin now.

Monkey Pilots, flower operators and rainbow-smashers were among dozens of queer jobs created for the first time in the production of "The Wizard of Oz," musical spectacle in color based on the L. Frank Baum story and showing at the Cliftona Theatre for four days starting Sunday. Because of unusual effects and characters in the musical, which was staged as a glorified Broadway show, odd inventions came into being and the odd jobs developed with them.

The monkey pilots, guided the movements of the Winged Monkeys, a colorful group figuring in the musical.

Four midget lifters were on hand during the Munchkin sequence. The Munchkins were played by midgets, including the Slinger group. Because of their size they often had to be lifted to platforms or balconies, or even to the drinking fountains. A group of husky six-footers served as their human elevators.

Shug Keeler, an electrician, rehearsed for his job as rainbow-smasher. In the sequence in the palace of the Wicked Witch a rainbow effect forms, is crossed like a bridge, then smashes. Keeler handled the electrical controls of the effect. Flower operators handled the movements of the giant Hollyhocks which moved in rhythm with a musical number.

Several projects are being undertaken by the Chamber of Commerce to help swell the fund. One is the "Ton of Pennies" campaign through which small contributions are sought. Milk bottles marked as receptacles have been placed in various uptown stores where pennies may be dropped.

Several civic organizations are joining in a "White Elephant" sale, profit from which will also go into the pot. The "White Elephant" sale, an auction affair, is being planned by George E. Griffith and other committee men. Any persons having articles about the house that they wish to dispose of for a good cause should call Mr. Griffith. The articles should be donated for sale at the "White Elephant" auction.

At the conclusion of the K. of P. meeting lunch was served. Robert S. Denman, North Pickaway Street, is chancellor commander of the lodge.

AUTO INDUSTRY NOT AT PEAK, SLOAN'S OPINION

Higher Degree Of Prosperity Looms, Says Head Of General Motors

BARRIERS ARE CITED

Reservoir Of Demand Seen In Shortage Of Inventory Of Present Cars

NEW YORK, Sept. 12 — The maximum of growth of the automotive industry has yet to be reached, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., chairman of General Motors, declared today in a dividend message to the company stockholders.

"There does not seem to be any justification for believing that the automotive industry has reached the maximum of its growth," he reported "while its development cannot be expected to continue at the rapid rate that characterized the earlier years, there is every reason to believe that as soon as our national policies permit the resumption of a normal upward trend in the national income, the automotive industry will enjoy, and at an accelerated rate, a degree of that prosperity."

The volume of automotive sales varies as the national income goes up and down, he stated.

"In periods of lowered national income prospective purchasers become conservative in their outlook. They are inclined to continue to use cars already in their possession," Sloan pointed out. "Conversely, when business is improving, customers become more liberal in their purchases as their confidence in the future increases, hence the number of new cars sold increases rapidly."

Stimulation of the used car market, and "important limiting factor in the sale of new cars," is also brought about by a higher income, he said, adding:

"When the economic barriers that have been erected during the past few years against the expansion of enterprise are removed and business can go forward with confidence as to its future opportunities, there will be assured to the automotive industry a reservoir of demand represented by the shortage of inventory of car miles now existing."

ASHVILLE

By S. D. Fridley
Ashville, Phone 79

News, we think to many, is that the local Ashville band is no more, at least in name, having been taken over by the Veterans of Foreign Wars' organization with headquarters at Circleville.

The newly named band was out at Community Park Monday in a practice marching drill under direction of the leader, Fred Hines.

Also along with this practice drill, twenty-four of the band members' measurement were taken for new uniforms carrying the insignia of VFW. Too, this organization has purchased, up to date, about a dozen new instruments needed for a fully equipped 40-piece band, in adequacy proficient enough to perform in any kind of company.

What we said in our column in Friday evening's Herald was not meant to do any one an injury but a mere jest on our part. In our more than fifty years about a print shop from devil to boss, we have never intentionally done anyone an injury and it is too late in life to begin now.

Frank Grice, our veteran melon grower, has had an especially good year in growing water melons. Said that if nothing out of the ordinary came along to destroy them there would be melons in his acre patch for at least a couple of weeks yet.

SCHOOL FIGHT TO BE CARRIED TO HIGH COURT

Muhlenberg Board Decides To Appeal From Ruling Of Local Judge

NEW LAW POINTS DEBATED

Merging Of Institutions Ordered By County Board Stars Argument

The Muhlenberg Township board of education, continuing its fight to send high school pupils to Jackson Township and to continue to operate its own grade building, decided in a conference Monday afternoon with its attorneys to appeal the decision of Judge Meeker Terwilliger to higher court.

Judge Terwilliger last week upheld the decision of the Pickaway County Board of Education that Muhlenberg High School pupils should attend the Monroe Township building at Five Points and that the Monroe board should supervise the Darbyville grade school.

C. A. Leist and Tom A. Renick, attorneys for the Muhlenberg group, said Tuesday that the board had decided to go to a higher court. Mr. Leist declared: "There are some points of law to be decided that are new. Attorney generals of the state have made different rulings on the matters involved in this issue, so we believe that higher courts should establish a precedent which may be followed."

The controversy started after the State Department of Education revoked the Muhlenberg High School's first class charter declaring that there were not enough pupils in the high school to warrant a proper education. The department suggested that the high school pupils go to Monroe. The argument started at that time, some residents of Muhlenberg wishing to send their children to Jackson, others favoring Monroe, a few deciding on Williamsport, another few liking the Darby Township school, and still others looking toward the Scioto Township school.

The county board started to act, determining that the Muhlenberg board should be abolished and that the Darbyville grade building should be operated by the Monroe board. A temporary injunction

PETTENGILL

"The Gentleman from Indiana"

KEEP OUT!

This is not our war. We did not start it. We did not start the last war. We gained nothing from that war. We can gain nothing from this war.

But already the "war brides" are booming on the stock exchange. The drums begin to beat. The fever rises. In addition we have the unneutral attitude of the administration, indicated in nearly everything that has happened since Mr. Roosevelt's "quarantine" speech in Chicago in 1937. "We are sure to be in within six months." You see that in the papers. WHO are saying this? and WHY are they saying it?

The millions of people in this country who are certain this is not our war had better begin writing their Congressmen and do it now. Tell them to keep America out of Europe or they will be kept out of Washington.

If there are any Congressmen, such as Mr. Sol Bloom, new Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who are being impressed by the "necessity" of PETTENGILL of a "holy crusade," tell them to keep their shirts on!

At this point a little history may have a sobering effect. Many people think Mr. Roosevelt in 1936 received the biggest percentage of the popular vote ever cast for the two leading candidates for president. This is not so. Of the total vote for Roosevelt and Landon, Mr. Roosevelt got 62.2 percent. In 1920 Mr. Roosevelt was also a candidate, that year for vice president with James M. Cox. He campaigned that year for the Versailles Treaty and the League of Nations. He and Mr. Cox got exactly 36.2 percent. Mr. Harding and Mr. Coolidge got 63.8 percent of the total cast for the two leading tickets. This was greater than Mr. Roosevelt ever got. But that year Eugene Debs, running on the Socialist ticket, got halting the transfer of the territory to Monroe was granted by Judge Terwilliger pending final disposition of the dispute, but the court later upheld a demurrer filed by the county board against the Muhlenberg injunction petition. The Muhlenberg board, which includes William Wright, S. C. Weldinger, Glen Hamilton and Arthur Radcliff, cannot file its appeal from the court's decision until an entry is signed covering the demurrer ruling as made last week by Judge Terwilliger. When this entry is made a part of the official record the appeal will be announced.

upon which Mr. Roosevelt ran for Vice President. No one can say the issue was not then clearly presented. I quote: "It was for this that America broke away from traditional isolation and spent her blood and treasure to crush a colossal scheme of conquest." (Sounds familiar, doesn't it?)

"We felicitate the President (Mr. Wilson) on the exceptional achievement at Paris involved in the adoption of a league and treaty so near akin to previously expressed American ideals. . . . We condemn the Republican Senate for its refusal to ratify the treaty merely because it was a product of Democratic statesmen and all, think calmly and well upon this whole subject. Nothing valuable can be lost by taking time. If there be an object to hurry any of you in hot haste to a step which you would never take deliberately, that object will be frustrated by taking time, but ship . . . The honor of the country is involved in this business. . . . We advocate the immediate ratification of the treaty without reservation which would impair its essential integrity."

That was the issue. On it Mr. Harding went to the White House. And in Congress, the party strength in the Senate was 59 Republicans, 37 Democrats, and in the House 300 to 132.

For these reasons, if there is any effort to push us into this war, I say again, and especially to my Democratic friends because they have the major legislative responsibility, a word to the wise is sufficient! I emphatically do not agree with this new hullabaloo and propaganda that our participation is "inevitable" or that it would guarantee a third term.

Whatever happens, insist on time to think. If there is a special session of Congress, if war-dictatorship bills written down town are rushed to Capitol Hill, take time to think. In his first inaugural message Abraham Lincoln said, "My countrymen, one and all, think calmly and well upon this whole subject. Nothing valuable can be lost by taking time. If there be an object to hurry any of you in hot haste to a step which you would never take deliberately, that object will be frustrated by taking time, but no good object can be frustrated by it."

Mr. Leist declared: "There are some points of law to be decided that are new. Attorney generals of the state have made different rulings on the matters involved in this issue, so we believe that higher courts should establish a precedent which may be followed."

The controversy started after the State Department of Education revoked the Muhlenberg High School's first class charter declaring that there were not enough pupils in the high school to warrant a proper education. The department suggested that the high school pupils go to Monroe. The argument started at that time, some residents of Muhlenberg wishing to send their children to Jackson, others favoring Monroe, a few deciding on Williamsport, another few liking the Darby Township school, and still others looking toward the Scioto Township school.

The county board started to act, determining that the Muhlenberg board should be abolished and that the Darbyville grade building should be operated by the Monroe board. A temporary injunction

KEEP OUT!

This is not our war. We did not start it. We did not start the last war. We gained nothing from that war. We can gain nothing from this war.

But already the "war brides" are booming on the stock exchange. The drums begin to beat. The fever rises. In addition we have the unneutral attitude of the administration, indicated in nearly everything that has happened since Mr. Roosevelt's "quarantine" speech in Chicago in 1937. "We are sure to be in within six months." You see that in the papers. WHO are saying this? and WHY are they saying it?

The millions of people in this country who are certain this is not our war had better begin writing their Congressmen and do it now. Tell them to keep America out of Europe or they will be kept out of Washington.

If there are any Congressmen, such as Mr. Sol Bloom, the new Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, who are being impressed by the "necessity" of a "holy crusade," tell them to keep their shirts on!

At this point a little history may have a sobering effect. Many people think Mr. Roosevelt in 1936 received the biggest percentage of the popular vote ever cast for the two leading candidates for president. This is not so. Of the total vote for Roosevelt and Landon, Mr. Roosevelt got 62.2 percent. In 1920 Mr. Roosevelt was also a candidate—that year for vice president with James M. Cox. He campaigned that year for the Versailles Treaty and the League of Nations. He and Mr. Cox got exactly 36.2 percent. Mr. Harding and Mr. Coolidge got 63.8 percent of the total cast for the two leading tickets. This was greater than Mr. Roosevelt ever got. But that year Eugene Debs, running on the Socialist ticket, got 920,000 votes. As Debs had gone to prison rather than endorse the war, his vote is certainly entitled to be considered as an anti-war vote. If it is added, the total isolationist, or anti-involvement vote that year was 64.4.

A word to the wise is sufficient. Beware 1940! Many of that 1920 minority sincerely thought the majority was wrong. They may think still we should have ratified the Versailles Treaty, pointed the League of Nations which underwrote the boundary lines set by that Treaty.

But this is now mere kicking against the pricks. If the majority were wrong, they preferred to be "wrong" in America than "right" in Europe. In short, "anti-war" was more popular than Mr. Roosevelt has been at any time.

Nineteen Twenty was the last of official expression of public opinion on this question. But many polls in recent months show a strong majority belief now that not only were we right in refusing to ratify the Versailles Treaty after the war, but that we should never have gotten into that war to begin with.

Here is the platform of 1920

halting the transfer of the territory to Monroe was granted by Judge Terwilliger pending final disposition of the dispute, but the court later upheld a demurrer filed by the county board against the Muhlenberg injunction petition.

The Muhlenberg board, which includes William Wright, S. C. Weidinger, Glen Hamilton and Arthur Radcliff, cannot file its appeal from the court's decision until an entry is signed covering the demurrer ruling as made last week by Judge Terwilliger. When this entry is made a part of the official record the appeal will be announced.

upon which Mr. Roosevelt ran for Vice President. No one can say the issue was not then clearly presented. I quote: "It was for this that America broke away from traditional isolation and spent her blood and treasure to crush a colossal scheme of conquest." (Sounds familiar, doesn't it?)

We felicitate the President (Mr. Wilson) on the exceptional achievement at Paris involved in the adoption of a league and treaty so near akin to previously expressed American ideals. . . . We condemn the Republican Senate for its refusal to ratify the treaty merely because it was a product of Democratic statesmen-

ship. . . . The honor of the country is involved in this business. . . . We advocate the immediate ratification of the treaty without reservation which would impair its essential integrity."

That was the issue. On it Mr. Harding went to the White House. And in Congress, the party strength in the Senate was 59 Republicans, 37 Democrats, and in the House 300 to 132.

For these reasons, if there is any effort to push us into this war, I say again, and especially to my Democratic friends because they have the major legislative responsibility, a word to the wise is sufficient! I emphatically do not agree with this new hullabaloo and propaganda that our participation is "inevitable" or that it would guarantee a third term.

Whatever happens, insist on time to think. If there is a special session of Congress, if war-dictatorship bills written down town are rushed to Capitol Hill, take time to think. In his first inaugural message Abraham Lincoln said, "My countrymen, one and all, think calmly and well upon this whole subject. Nothing valuable can be lost by taking time. If there be an object to hurry any of you in hot haste to a step which you would never take deliberately, that object will be frustrated by taking time, but

AMERICAN RECRUITING

THE President has started a big recruiting drive to add about 150,000 men to the armed forces of the United States on land and sea. This is done under laws allowing such action in a case of national emergency. In the President's view, such an emergency now exists.

Public opinion may be expected to approve such action, in view of the alarming foreign situation. The obvious feeling of the American people now is that we should put ourselves in a strong position of self-defense and then sit tight, riding out the war if possible without getting into it. The practical import of this military and naval expansion is that we are less likely to be drawn into the war if we are strong than if we are weak, because aggressors respect strength.

The new enlistments are expected to raise the strength of the regular army from its present 167,000 to 227,000; of the navy from 111,000 to 145,000, of the marine corps from 18,000 to 25,000, and of the National Guard from 190,000 to 235,000. This will mean in round numbers a federal strength of 400,000 professionals by land and sea, and additional state citizen-soldiers bringing the total available fighting men up to 630,000.

HE-MAN SMOKES

AT a time when cigarettes seem to be conquering the tobacco world, except for a new wave of pipe-smoking, William Feather writing in The Mutual Magazine comes out with a eulogy on cigars.

A cigar, he insists, is the supreme smoke, but it calls for judgment and taste. It should not be smoked when one is hungry or hurried, angry or worried. It also requires companionship, the nature of which is almost as important as the quality of the cigar.

Moreover, "the conversation that befits a clear Havana of robust shape must be tolerant and expansive. Any suggestion of meanness makes the smoke bitter. A nervous waiter or hostess ruins a good cigar.

If a young man smokes at all, it is a good sign when he learns to enjoy an after-dinner cigar. Cigar smokers are inclined to be substantial citizens, able to think things through."

A cigar doesn't fit the feminine temperament. It is about the only masculine pleasure that women haven't adopted for themselves. One of the minor tragedies of life, says Mr. Feather, is that, not liking cigars themselves, they have compelled so many men to give them up.

Here is obviously room for a good argument, and no doubt the cigar enthusiast will get it.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

OFFICIAL Washington's impression is that the average German not only didn't want war but didn't really look for it. He was worried of course. Yet, from all accounts, he wasn't as much worried as the English and French were—for the simple reason that his country's censorship was so tight that evidently he was unable to keep any sort of adequate touch with developments. What he appears to have thought was that Fuehrer Hitler would get what he was demanded by demanding it, without actually fighting. Quite likely Hitler himself thought so.

On the opposite hand, the English and French, while recognizing the situation's dangers, obviously clung to a near-conviction that Adolf was only super-bluffing and that he'd lie down if called strenuously enough. Diplomatic advices were to this effect, anyway.

Washington believed much the same thing up to the last minute. At all events it vehemently hoped so. Even during the days of rival mobilizations and blockouts and rationing, the guess was to be heard from well-informed functionaries that the prolongation of these preparations hinted at a peaceful outcome, at least temporarily.

As one high-up military man (he wouldn't thank me if I named him, thus advertising his misjudgment) remarked to me, "supposing an athlete wants to establish a record as a long running jumper, he doesn't run ten miles before taking off. That would be too far. He'd fall exhausted while still on terra firma."

GERMANY NEVER LICKED? There's some interesting state departmental, army and navy command in connection with the Nazi claim that the Fatherland wasn't really licked in the last war—that what happened was a revolution at home instead of a pro-ally victory.

This contention isn't at all hotly disputed.

Plenty of good authorities are prepared to admit that German arms could have held their own almost indefinitely if internal Germany hadn't intolerably tired of the kaiser and if the kaiser hadn't scooted at the psychological moment.

"But," query the critics, "what assurance has Herr Hitler that Germans generally won't tire of him even sooner than they tired of the kaiser?"

Wilhelm went into the war of 1914-18 with an extremely solid Germany behind him. All the evidence is that Adolf has a formidable discontented element to reckon with. He talks about a 10-year war. Wilhelm, with a better-looking beginning, couldn't outlast four years.

Adolf suggests successors to himself, if anything happens to him. Wilhelm didn't have to suggest any successors. He had 'em hereditarily scheduled. And his dynasty certainly seemed as firmly entrenched as Adolf's does—more so, maybe, as between 1914 and 1939.

The surmise is that Adolf's regime to blow up internally on short notice unless he scores some extraordinary triumphs very speedily.

PLANES, GERMS AND POISON There's a strong movement to "humanize" this war, as they express it, by an all-around agreement to bar indiscriminate air bombings, the use of poison gas and the scattering of disease germs.

I can see the sense in the argument that it's an unfair practice to drop bombs from airplanes upon noncombatants—killing and maiming peaceful folk, including women and innocent little children.

But, query the critics, "what assurance has Herr Hitler that Germans generally won't tire of him even sooner than they tired of the kaiser?"

Wilhelm went into the war of 1914-18 with an extremely solid Germany behind him. All the evidence is that Adolf has a formidable discontented element to reckon with. He talks about a 10-year war. Wilhelm, with a better-looking beginning, couldn't outlast four years.

Poisoning wells, for some reason, always has been spoken of as a dirty form of warfare. I don't see why it's any worse than killing a man with a shotgun. It's homicide, in either case.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

BRITISH AGENCY MAKES PURCHASES

WASHINGTON—When Sir Ronald Lindsay, retiring British Ambassador, called on the President to say goodbye, Roosevelt gave him one important piece of advice to take back to London.

"Your Government would be well advised," Roosevelt said in effect, "not to do its emergency buying in the United States through either a bank or banker as was done during the World War. Many of our people although sympathetic to the Allied cause, have very strong feelings about banker connections with war".

Lindsay thanked the President and assured him the counsel would be communicated to the right persons.

Whether this is the reason, or some other, the British Government has confidentially informed the Treasury and State Departments that it will conduct its war purchases in this country through an agency of its own that is now being set up quietly in New York. It will be directed by British officials, assisted by American experts. Purchases will be limited strictly to non-contraband commodities.

Lord Lothian, new British Ambassador, has privately assured Secretary Cordell Hull that England will rigidly observe the U. S. neutrality law and make no attempt to evade it by subterfuge.

NOTE—J. P. Morgan, upon returning from England last week, opined that it would be a 'natural thing' for his firm again to become the British agent.

GIVES US THREE MONTHS

Before he returned to Berlin, German Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff made a confidential survey of American opinion and reported to his government that if war broke in Europe the United States would come in within three months.

This gives an important key to present Hitler strategy in Poland. There is good reason to believe, from this and various other reports which have reached the White House, that the Nazis are making a prodigious effort to clean up their campaign before the United States can even lift the neutrality embargoes, let alone drift into war.

More than most people in this country realize, the position of the United States influences, in fact almost dominates, developments in Europe.

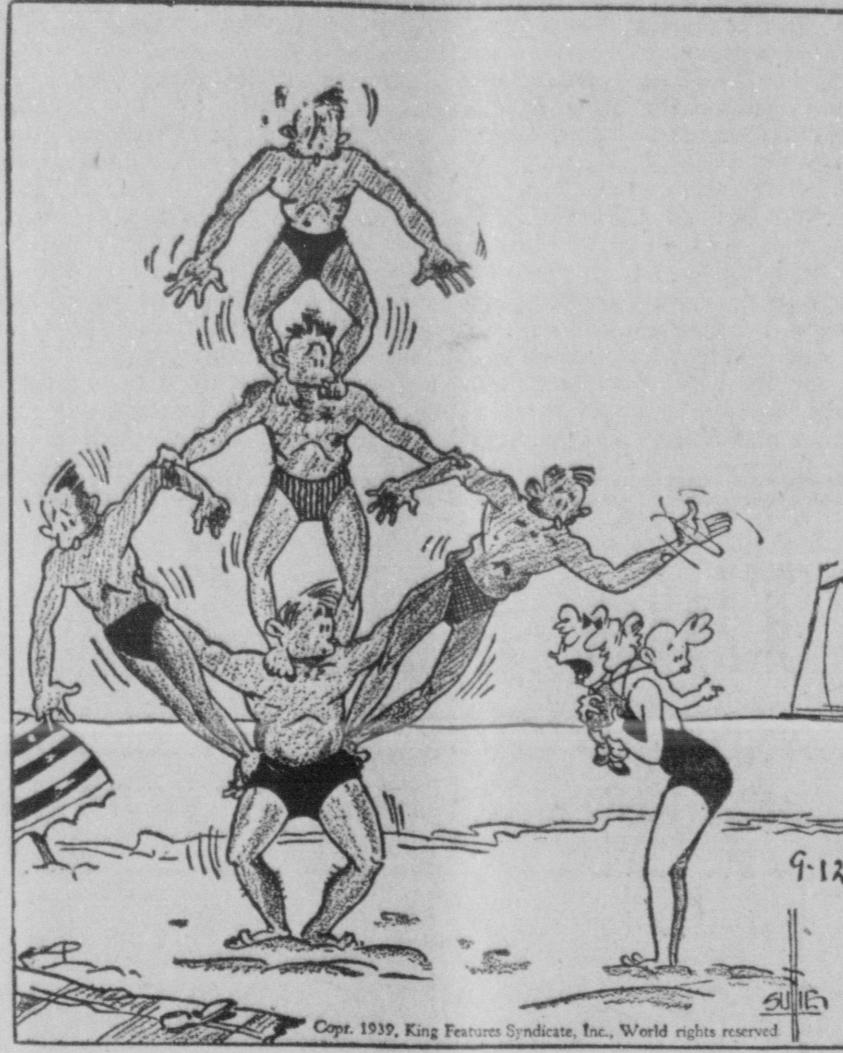

The situation is quite comparable to that in the winter of 1916-17, three months before the United States entered the World War. At that time, the German high command decided to intensify the submarine campaign against merchant shipping, and meeting was held on January 9, 1917, at Pless, the German G. H. Q. It was attended by the Kaiser, Hindenburg, Chancellor Bethmann-Hollweg and other high officers.

Bethmann-Hollweg, who always had favored friendship with the United States, warned the Council that the submarine

Takes Nine Medical Sections to Study a Patient

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE PRESIDENT of the American Clinical and Climatological Association made an interesting contrast in his presidential address between the record of a sick person in his hospital in 1908 and the record of a sick person in his hospital in 1939. In 1908 he had a patient, 61 years of age, who had done heavy work all his life and had indulged liberally in alcoholic beverages. He had no the P.K. interval 0.22 of a sec. and the Q.R.S. 0.15 of a sec. R1 was notched, S2, S3 and S4 F were notched, T1 was inverted, T2, T3 and T4 F were upright....

Don't ask me to tell you exactly what this all means. I suppose in the course of time I could find out, but I am by no means sure from experience that I would know what it means.

The doctor seems to think that the examination in 1939 is greatly superior to the examination in 1908. He says "that the goal of a future science of internal medicine is the complete understanding of the mechanism of all diseases."

Studied by Sections

He notes that in the examination of the patient in 1939, the patient was studied by the division of physiology of the circulation and of the physiology of respiration, which consists of two sections. The chemical study was conducted by five sections in the hospital. The constitutional clinic had two sections, which consisted of one to study the physical condition of the patient and one to study the mental attitude.

To my mind, however, the one doctor who studied the patient in 1908 had a better understanding of the human being who lay in bed sick than all the nine sections which studied the patient in 1939.

After all, the most sensitive instrument for examining a human being would lead to heart disease, but a short time before admission to the hospital he became short of breath. This symptom became progressively worse and any exertion would cause severe paroxysms of shortness of breath. He could not sleep at night because his heart beat so that he could feel it, and he was unable to lie flat in bed. His ankles became swollen and he developed a cough.

The record of his examination, which included the use of the eyes and the ears of the physician, a thermometer and a stethoscope, occupies 17 lines of type. The record of his treatment occupies 25 lines.

Similar Symptoms The patient in 1939 was 61 years of age and had similar symptoms. The record of his examination by means of the physician's eyes and ears, stethoscope and thermometer, is compressed into eight lines. But there follow five pages of records, such as:

"The N.P.N. of the blood was from 32 to 50 mgm. per cent and the plasma C02 61 volumes per cent.

The blood cholesterol varied from 194 to 235 mgm. per cent. The total serum protein was 5.7 per cent, the albumin 3.7 per cent and the globulin 2.2 per cent, the fasting blood sugar as 85 mgm. per cent....

"The ventricular rate was 90,

etc., etc., etc.

Daughters of 1812

Members of the Major John Boggs chapter, Daughters of 1812 and several guests enjoyed the opening meeting of the fall season followed by an informal tea Monday at the home of Mrs. Orion King, West High Street. In the absence of Mrs. John Boggs, president, Mrs. King, assisted by Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, chaplain, opened the session in ritualistic form.

Mrs. A. Y. Wilcox, acting pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Athens, read the ceremony before an improvised altar of flowers and ferns in the living room, which was lighted only by candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Neil Tippett sang several numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Sharick of Millfield, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Leland Wilson was matron of honor for her sister-in-law and Mr. Donald Rankin of Denison served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Athens High School and attended Ohio University where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority. She is a member of the Athens Business and Professional Women's Club. She has been employed as bookkeeper at the F. C. Stedman Company of Athens since leaving college.

Mrs. Charles H. May, acting secretary, read the minutes of the last regular meeting and of the two called meetings held during the summer. Mrs. May also read an invitation for the chapter to attend a meeting of the Chapter Jonathan Alder chapter at Alder Cabin, West Jefferson, Saturday, September 16. Mrs. Eleanor W. Bissell read two letters from prospective members. Miss Clara Littleton, chairman of the program committee, discussed the details of the year programs which were distributed at this meeting. With the year's study based on "Ohio", she mentioned the reference books available.

A letter was read from Mrs. Charles E. Aspinwall, state president, outlining her aims for the year's work. She also stressed the importance of the state board meeting to be in Columbus October 25 at the Seneca Hotel. She requested the members of the chapter to assist in sending the war records of Ohio soldiers serving in 1812.

Mrs. King, the new state historian, spoke of the year's work in her department. Miss Margaret Boggs, chairman of the reciprocity committee, distributed literature after her brief talk.

After the report of Mrs. Bryce Briggs, treasurer, Miss Littleton presenting her paper on "Ohio", told of the origin of the soil and rock formation of the state, beginning with the glacier age. She told how the climate varied during the ages and how the scientist gained information concerning the plants, animals and inhabitants, through rock formation and soil deposits. She mentioned the "Kettle-holes" the last one in a good state of preservation being the old ring on the Dr. Howard Jones property, Park Place.

Mrs. Eleanor Bissell then discussed "The Ohio Flag and Early Ohio Natives", her talk proving instructive and interesting to the group. Beginning with the "Ice Man", she continued with known facts concerning the "Mound Builders" and their work in Ohio, closing regrettably with the fact that the finest earthworks, the present site of Circleville, had been ruined when the early citizens of the town squared the streets.

She told of the meaning of the emblems of the flag of Ohio which was adopted in 1902.

At the close of the business hour, the guests were invited to the dining room where Miss Charlotte Caldwell presided at the attractive flower centered tea table. Mrs. Hervey Sweyer and Miss Margret Boggs assisted Mrs. King in serving delightful refreshments.

Walnut PTA

One hundred members were present Monday when Arthur Sark, president, called to order Walnut Township School's first PTA meeting of the year. After "America the Beautiful" was sung for the opening number, Miss Ruth Andrews, secretary, read her report.

C. D. Bennett, school superintendent, suggested a more extensive health program for this year. It was decided that the president and committee heads would go to the state convention, to be held in Columbus October 11, 12 and 13.

Book awards, for grades having best attendance, were suggested by Wilbur Griffith.

After the group sang, "Oh Susanna" and "Love's Old Sweet Song," the men teachers sang "Auld Lang Syne" and the women teachers, "Old Folks at Home."

White covered tables were set in the dining room, a pink and white color theme being carried out with pink candles, flowers and crepe paper decorations. Refreshments in keeping with the decorations were served.

During the reception which followed the lunch hour, Mr. Bennett introduced the teachers of the school, giving interesting details in the experiences of each. The teachers in the order presented include Miss Essa V. Willison, commerce; Miss Mary Kerr, 1; Miss Margaret Graves, 3; Miss Charlotte E. Rhodes, home economics; Miss Elizabeth E. Reber, music; Miss Thelma Plum, 5; Miss Rosemary Boggs, 2; Kenneth Holtrey, agriculture; John R. Rawns, physical education; McClure H. Hughes, 6; Judson H. Lannan, principal and science; Mr. Griffith, 8; Eugene Smith, English; Richard Cockerill, history and mathematics; Miss Ruth Andrews, physical education, history and social science and Miss Georgia Bowers, 4.

Stump-Wilson Wedding

Miss Dorothy Baker Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Wilson of Athens, and Mr. James Richard Stump, son of Mrs. Oscar Heffner of West High Street, were united in marriage Sunday at 7:30 P. M. in the home of the bride's parents.

Dr. A. Y. Wilcox, acting pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Athens, read the ceremony before an improvised altar of flowers and ferns in the living room, which was lighted only by candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Mr. Neil Tippett sang several numbers, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Sharick of Millfield, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Leland Wilson was matron of honor for her sister-in-law and Mr. Donald Rankin of Denison served as best man.

The bride is a graduate of Athens High School and attended Ohio University where she was a member of Alpha Delta Pi Sorority. She is a member of the Athens Business and Professional Women's Club. She has been employed as bookkeeper at the F. C. Stedman Company of Athens since leaving college.

DARK BROWN is one of the most important colors this Autumn, with lighter shades of brown registering in the accessory section. Firm fabrics, such as moire, and faille, are used by the best designers. And as the frock sketched here is dark brown faille, it is very much of the mode. The snug bodice has self-buttons to the waist. The skirt is flared and falls in rather stiff folds, being gathered at the waist. The long, tight sleeve, with puffed shoulder, has a white fluted cuff. The white pique collar also has a fluted edge. Monday Club Begins Its Activity After Vacation

Dr. Esther A. Gaw
Of Ohio State
Speaks

Basing the year of study on well planned topics woven around Latin-America, the Monday Club of Circleville embarked Monday evening on its fiftieth year of interesting discussion and research. This was the opening meeting of the fall and a large number of women back from vacations and a summer of activities answered roll call, eager and ready for a pleasant fall and winter program.

The outgoing officers for 1938-1939 were at their posts, opening the session with Mrs. Hulse Hays, retiring president, in the chair and Mrs. Orion King, recording secretary, reading the minutes of former meetings. Final reports were given by Mrs. Charles Gilmore, treasurer, and Miss Clara Littleton, chairman of the publicity committee. Mrs. Hays then presented the gavel to Mrs. Ray W. Davis, new president, who spoke briefly of her aims for the year. Mrs. Sterling Lamb, new secretary, then took her place.

Mrs. Davis announced that the club would formulate plans for a fiftieth anniversary celebration of the organization which was meeting prior to the beginning of the National and State Federation in 1893 and 1894, respectively. She said that a committee would be appointed for this work.

At the conclusion of the business session, Mrs. Loren Lutz, chairman of the literature division, introduced the speaker, Dr. Esther Allen Gaw, Dean of Women, Ohio State University, Columbus, who delivered a timely address on "Education in Spanish Speaking Countries of the Western Hemisphere". Dr. Gaw had brought a collection of dolls, maps and pictures to illustrate her theme.

She opened her address with the remark that groups of club women had a remarkable influence on the adult education and civilization of the world. Mrs. Gaw told of her visit to the western coast of South America more than a year ago where she visited principally Peru, Chile and Panama. Since Panama's education is patterned greatly after our own type, she touched chiefly on education in the other two countries. Her address was divided, speaking first of climate and its effect on civilization, then on the attitude of South American countries to the United States, and present education.

In closing her very interesting talk she stated that she considered the Pan American conference very profitable in creating a more friendly and understanding attitude between the United States and her South American neighbors. While the people are still a trifle envious of our prosperity, she thinks our government can build up a zone of peace which will be more lasting. She added, "The National Federation of Club Scholarship project plays no small part in cementing this friendship."

At the close of her address, Dr. Gaw invited the club to inspect her interesting exhibit, after

The brigade is equipped with 16 17-mm. howitzers and 1,000 machine guns. Each of the combat cars is armed with a .50-caliber machine gun and three .30-caliber guns, one of which is on an anti-aircraft mount. For close-in fighting each of these has a sub-machine gun and crews are armed with 45 automatics.

Swift Scout Cars
Swift scout cars equipped with machine guns and adapted either to smooth highways or rough country supplement the other equipment.

Attached to the brigade were the First and Thirteenth Cavalry and Sixty-eighth Field Artillery, the Twelfth Observation Squadron, the Nineteenth Ordnance Company, Company E of the Fifth Quartermaster's Regiment, and the Signal and Medical detachments.

The present trip of the Brigade covers 3,000 miles to the East and back home again.

Earlier Tuesday some Circleville folk thought they were seeing the big Brigade when army trucks traveled south on Route 23, but this outfit was merely 30 trucks from Battery A of the Seventeenth Field Artillery, commanded by Captain George D. Pence, traveling also to Fort Hayes.

Pearl came back to town last week end and was picked up again. Mayor Cady, Monday evening, bound him to the grand jury under $1,000 bond on a non-support count. Bush did not provide the bond.

Wounded Arrive

Although hospital trains are arriving in Paris daily from the front, and wives and mothers are being notified steadily that their husbands and sons have died in combat, the casualties thus far, it was said, have been held to a "minimum," considering the nature of the task.

General Marie Gustav Gamelin, chief of staff, has uppermost in his mind the conservation of life. In this precept he is following the example of his World War predecessor, Marshal Henri Petain.

Prevention of losses is one of the chief and unending preoccupations of the general staff, not only because of natural humanitarian instincts, but for the very hard and practical reason that the French are facing a foe twice as strong numerically as they are.

British In France

LONDON, Sept. 12—For the first time since war began in Europe ten days ago, the British government announced officially today that British tommies have arrived in France.

It was denied, however, that the British had yet gone into action with their French allies against the outposts of the Siegfried line.

With disclosure of this official information, it may now be revealed that the British air force comprised the advance guard of Britain's expeditionary force in France.

Members of R. A. F. units arrived in Paris during the first days of the war to arrange for arrival of a huge number of fighting and bombing planes which are now being flown over to take up stations at specially selected French military air fields.

Details Lacking

Only a few details of British cooperation remain to be settled, since discussions regarding coordination of signals, landing codes and other technicalities were concluded long ago.

The Royal Air Force will cooperate in reconnaissance work, photography and raiding enemy concentrations in the vicinity of the Siegfried Line.

For some days past, rumors have been current in this country and abroad that British troops have landed in France.

"The ministry of information is now permitted to announce officially that this is so.

"The troops are not yet in action, and no further details can in the meantime be furnished.

"However, it is the intention of the military authorities to supply further information from time to time."

Despite the firm denial contained in the communiqué, belief persisted many quarters that British units actually had begun operations on the Western Front in company with the French.

PARIS PREDICTS QUICK FALL OF SAARBRUCKEN

Heavy Thrust Results In German Troop Transfers From Poland

(Continued from Page One) German border were characterized as particularly brilliant, bringing the French within striking distance of Saarbrucken, equally vital to the Germans as an industrial center and a petroleum supply center.

"Perhaps the moment is not far away," said Charles Morice, writing in the Petit Parisien, "when the Germans will have to move their line above Saarbrucken." Well-informed sources, justifying the cautious nature of the Franco-British campaign against the impudent demands of those insisting upon a major offensive without delay, said that the operations carried forward thus far "are in line with the reputation of the French general staff, conceding in military circles to be the world's best."

INCREASE IN BUSINESS SEEN—War in Europe will mean increased activity in the heavy goods industries. Also huge foreign orders for American petroleum, steel, iron, copper, airplanes, ships, machinery, railroad equipment arms etc.

AMERICAN NEUTRALITY—I am in complete favor of American neutrality, as long as America stays neutral the European war will help American social and economic conditions. Business will improve all along the line and will give American markets that were previously supplied by the warring nations.

In the opinion of Washington officials, a national income of $80 or $90 billions and a balanced national budget is expected.

FEDERAL DEBT REDUCTION—Officials here in Washington say that a large national income would mean greater tax revenues and as the industrial expansion gets underway, unemployment will drop.

So will relief expenses. In this manner the war is expected to reduce the Federal debt and balance the budget.

DEFENSE APPROPRIATIONS—Of the $1,800,000,000 voted by Congress during the last session, for Army and Navy defense, a considerable sum has been used in the construction of defense weapons. $950,000,000, has been turned over to the Army. Part of this will provide for an air fleet of 5,500 planes. Already 1,000 planes have been contracted for and orders for 2,500 more are underway. The Navy is building 101 new vessels as an addition to the present total of 369 vessels of all ages and classes. Construction has also begun on 14 Naval air bases.

Meanwhile Mr. Roosevelt checked soaring sugar prices in a manner that indicated the White House would not countenance profiteering. An executive order suspended sugar marketing quotas temporarily, which will make possible a flood of sugar from Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

Dean Landis described his action as "unpatriotic in the extreme."

EXTENSION OF RURAL POWER LINES APPROVED

Extension of rural electric lines in Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties was assured Tuesday when the REA announced in Washington D. C. that an additional grant of $95,000 had been made for work in the district served by the South Central Ohio Rural Electric Cooperative.

Last week Secretary of Agriculture Wallace pointed out there was a domestic sugar surplus of 800,000 tons.

Despite the prospects of sharp debate over neutrality repeal, it was regarded certain the President would call a special session for that purpose—although he said he has not yet decided upon it.

Borah keynoted the opposition when he said:

"There is no time when fair and open and courageous discussion is more essential for the protection of public interests than when we are under the sway of emergency sentiments."

He likewise challenged the President's assertion that congress should meet and adjourn quickly.

"No one can confine congress to one subject but congress itself," he said. "There are many things to be discussed. Congress should remain in session constantly until the regular January session and should be consulted on all problems."

OPPOSITION TO PENSION PLAN GAINS STRENGTH

COLUMBUS, Sept. 12—Opposition to the Bigelow $50-a-month pension plan gained momentum today as 40 state-wide professional, farm, trade and patriotic organizations backed a special committee which is working to defeat the proposed amendments.

B. B. Brunley, general committee chairman, said the organizations hoped to publicize the "economic and political evils" of the proposed amendments. Among the 40 organizations were the Ohio State Grange, Ohio Association of Police Chiefs and the Ohio State Medical Association.

Surviving are the husband, a son, Howard, a brother, Sam Jones, and a sister, Miss Bertha Jones, the latter two of Williamsport. Mrs. Wilson has numerous other relatives in Pickaway County.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

IT'S TRUE! By Wiley Padan

IT'S TRUE! that when Edward G. Robinson was a child of three in Rumania, he played with the candles of his birthday cake, set fire to his house, which was completely destroyed! His mother was injured in saving the family and was an invalid for months afterward. "However, here is the irony of Hollywood! Robinson has been afraid of fire ever since, but in M-G-M's 'Blackmail' he plays a man who puts out dangerous oil fires with dynamite!"

(Continued from Page One) defense witnesses and branded by Senator Warren R. Austin (Vermont) assistant senate Republican leader, indicating that between 18 and 25 senators were prepared to fight the Roosevelt neutrality program to the bitter end. The administration seemed certain of a safe majority, however.

Meantime Mr. Roosevelt checked soaring sugar prices in a manner that indicated the White House would not countenance profiteering. An executive order suspended sugar marketing quotas temporarily, which will make possible a flood of sugar from Cuba, Puerto Rico and the Philippines.

Complaints Registered

Only a few details of British cooperation remain to be settled, since discussions regarding coordination of signals, landing codes and other technicalities were concluded long ago.

The Royal Air Force will cooperate in reconnaissance work, photography and raiding enemy concentrations in the vicinity of the Siegfried Line.

For some days past, rumors have been current in this country and abroad that British troops have landed in France.

"The ministry of information is now permitted to announce officially that this is so.

"The troops are not yet in action, and no further details can in the meantime be furnished.

"However, it is the intention of the military authorities to supply further information from time to time."

Despite the firm denial contained in the communiqué, belief persisted many quarters that British units actually had begun operations on the Western Front in company with the French.

On the march these latter units control the brigade's traffic and in battle serve as messengers.

The brigade is equipped with 16 17-mm. howitzers and 1,000 machine guns. Each of the combat cars is armed with a .50-caliber machine gun and three .30-caliber guns, one of which is on an anti-aircraft mount. For close-in fighting each of these has a sub-machine gun and crews are armed with .45 automatics.

Swift Scout Cars

Swift scout cars equipped with machine guns and adapted either to smooth highways or rough country supplement the other equipment.

Attached to the brigade were the First and Thirteenth Cavalry and Sixty-eighth Field Artillery, the Twelfth Observation Squadron, the Nineteenth Ordnance Company, Company E of the Fifth Quartermaster's Regiment, and the Signal and Medical detachments. —ad

The present trip of the Brigade covers 3,000 miles to the East and back home again.

Earlier Tuesday some Circleville folk thought they were seeing the big Brigade when army trucks traveled south on Route 23, but this outfit was merely 30 trucks from Battery A of the Seventeenth Field Artillery, commanded by Captain George D. Pence, traveling also to Fort Knox.

BUSH RETURNS FOR LONG VISIT IN COUNTY JAIL

Pearl Bush, who just couldn't stay out of Circleville despite a promise to Mayor W. B. Cady to the contrary, is back in the county jail for a long visit at the county's expense. Bush, fined $100 and costs by Mayor Cady several weeks ago on an intoxication charge, told the mayor he'd stay away.

Pearl came back to town last week end and was picked up again. Mayor Cady, Monday evening, bound him to the grand jury under $1,000 bond on a non-support count. Bush did not provide the bond.

Wounded Arrive

Although hospital trains are arriving in Paris daily from the front, and wives and mothers are being notified steadily that their husbands and sons have died in combat, the casualties thus far, it was said, have been held to a "minimum," considering the nature of the task.

General Marie Gustav Gamelin, chief of staff, has uppermost in his mind the conservation of life. In this precept he is following the example of his World War predecessor, Marshal Henri Petain.

Prevention of losses is one of the chief and unending preoccupations of the general staff, not only because of natural humanitarian instincts, but for the very hard and practical reason that the French are facing a foe twice as strong numerically as they are.

British In France

LONDON, Sept. 12—For the first time since war began in Europe ten days ago, the British government announced officially today that British tommy's have arrived in France.

It was denied, however, that the British had yet gone into action with their French allies against the outposts of the Siegfried line.

With disclosure of this official information, it may now be revealed that the British air force comprised the advance guard of Britain's expeditionary force in France.

Members of R. A. F. units arrived in Paris during the first days of the war to arrange for arrival of a huge number of fighting and bombing planes which are now being flown over to take up stations at specially selected French military air fields.

Pickaway County school teachers will hear two addresses and enjoy a musical program Saturday when they meet in the Deercreek Township school, Williamsport, for their initial get-together of the year.

George D. McDowell, superintendent of schools, announced Tuesday that Dr. F. H. McNutt, director of the division of instruction of the Ohio Department of Education, would offer the principal address, while Miss Ann Hagemann, elementary supervisor of the Chillicothe schools, would speak also. Dr. McNutt's subject will be "Criteria for Instruction." Miss Hagemann will discuss "Special Problems in Reading."

The program will start at 9:45 A. M. with invocation by the Rev. D. H. Householder of the Williamsport Methodist Church. The Deercreek Township school orchestra directed by Paul Rose will play preceding a discussion of the county health program by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, county health commissioner.

Superintendents of the various schools will then present new teachers after which a double mixed quartet from the Deercreek Township school, Miss Mary McCollister, director, will sing. After Dr. McNutt's address the teachers will hear a vocal duet by Sara Jean Godden and Marjorie Heiskell of the Deercreek school.

The Rev. Mr. Householder will pronounce the benediction at 12 o'clock noon.

The teachers' meetings usually attract nearly 100 percent attendance. Superintendent McDowell urged that all teachers be present for this first meeting, the subjects to be discussed being especially timely and important.

campaign automatically would bring America into the war. Admiral von Holtzendorff countered with the guarantee that the German Navy would not permit one American soldier to set foot in Europe. Bethmann-Hollweg discounted it would take the United States considerable time to mobilize an army and become effective.

Thus the die was cast which brought the United States into the World War.

NO GERMAN ATROCITIES

This time, however, the Germans are not making the same mistake. Whether Ambassador Dieckhoff's survey is correct or not, all signs point to the fact that Germany is making a prodigious effort to defeat Poland in a few weeks.

Second, all reports from Europe indicate that the Nazis are avoiding any bombardments of London and Paris which might arouse American public opinion. In fact, it looks as if Hitler is taking the greatest precautions to make no move which might help influence Congress to lift the neutrality embargo on arms for the belligerents.

IN THE DARK

Just how strained have become personal relations between Roosevelt and Garner was disclosed by an incident the other day in the private office of Colonel Ed Halsey, well groomed secretary of the Senate. The phone rang and he was informed that "Uvalde is calling." Garner himself was on the line.

"Ed, when's that special session going to be called?" he asked. "Have you any information? I haven't heard a thing."

Halsey replied that he knew no more than he had read in the newspapers, but he would try to find out.

"I wish you would, Ed," said Garner. "I've got a hunting trip all set, but I don't want to go if we're going to be called back in the midst of it. They'd have a hard time getting me in the woods and if it looks like the call will go out in a few days, I'd better stick around."

NOTE—The war and possibility of a special session have played a role with the campaign plans of three GOP presidential candidates.

Dewey was scheduled to make three Midwestern speeches this fall, and Taft and Bridges extensive Western speaking tours by and D. E. Mason.

POLICE UNABLE TO FORCE TALK FROM SUSPECT

Maintaining silence concerning his alleged attempted burglary of the J. W. Eshelman and Sons Milling Co. last Saturday night, Felix Jackin, 32-year-old Youngstown Pole, remained under police guard Tuesday in Berger Hospital. Jackin has a broken left leg, the injury being inflicted when he failed to heed the command to halt after he was surprised in the office of the milling firm.

While police were continuing to guard the Youngstown man, a search was being carried on for accomplices of the burglary suspect. Police believe that Jackin was accompanied by one man and possibly by a woman also. Jackin's Ford car, which had been hidden along the Kingston Pike, was found to have been broken into. Police believe that Jackin's aide or aides returned to the automobile after the robbery attempt was frustrated to remove articles that were left there. The keys to the car were found in Jackin's pocket.

Police Chief W. F. McCrady said Tuesday that charges of breaking and entering are being prepared against the Youngstown man. Jackin is an ex-convict. McCrady said, having served time in the Moundsville, W. Va., penitentiary for robbery. The sheriff's department is assisting the police in the search for Jackin's companions.

Starting Lineup
Proves Puzzle
For Tiger Coach

With inexperienced youths performing in some key positions and several other athletes suffering from lack of sufficient practice, Circleville High School's 1939 grid machine Tuesday was moving toward the lidlifter of the 1939 season, Friday night's encounter with Holy Rosary of Columbus. The Columbus Irish, bedecked in green uniforms and bringing the traditional Irish fight to the football field, boast two fast halfbacks, both of whom were members of last year's team that won the Columbus Catholic League championship.

The Rosary youths are coached by Bud Keefe, who has replaced Pete Beck, Holy Rosary coach for the last several years. The game will be the first for the Columbus team also.

Coach Roy M. Black and his aide, Tom Armstrong, were somewhat down in the dumps Monday evening when several veteran athletes failed to put in appearances for drill, the session being one of the most important of the season. It was hoped that all available lads would be on hand for the Tuesday after-school work-out.

Lineup In Doubt

From indications shown on the practice field Monday evening the coaches have not yet determined their starting lineup. The ends look like Paul Walters, a senior and last year's quarterback, and Paul Jackson, husky and dusky sophomore, whose pass snagging ability should work out well with the system taught by Black. At the tackle will likely be Russ Liston, who worked hard Monday in preparation for

FARMERS WARNED AGAINST TOO MUCH GRAIN PRICE OPTIMISM

GROWERS URGED TO STAND FIRM ON FED PLANS

Speculation Credited With Bringing About Climb In Markets

NEED FOR LOANS CITED

Growers Have Everything To Gain Under U. S. Program, Boggs Declares

Although market prices for corn and wheat have moved higher during the last few days because of the war in Europe, Pickaway County AAA officials Tuesday urged farmers to keep their feet on the ground and to follow crop control programs set up by the government.

Pickaway Countians should take stock of their position and analyze the situation before becoming unduly optimistic over market advances during the last several days, John G. Boggs, West Union Street, chairman of the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation committee, said.

"Every farmer in the county seems to be wanting his corn cut at the same time," one of the officials said.

It was pointed out that WPA workers may accept corn cutting jobs without damaging their relief roll status. The question of little white cards was explained. Each person assigned to a certain farm is given a white card. The employer is urged to keep this white card until the work is completed, then mail it to the Employment Service office.

There is no charge for service by this office, it being operated as a part of the state government.

100,000-YEAR-OLD BONES MOSCOW—Skull and teeth of a rhinoceros—estimated to be over 100,000 years old, have been found near here. Bones of an elephant of the same period have also been unearthed.

Mr. Boggs declared that he believed the AAA program flexible enough to make the necessary adjustments as fast as such are necessary. "Any expansion of the nation's farm plant is unwarranted at the present time," he stated. He went on to say that when increased production is necessary the program will provide for the necessary increase by raising individual farm allotments. The United States in 1939 harvested a crop from 55 million acres and for 1940 has a national wheat acreage allotment of 62 million acres, which farm officials say is adequate for all prospective needs.

The chairman pointed out that in 1914 at the outbreak of the World War, the world had a wheat supply of 3.7 billion bushels. This year the world supply of 5.2 billion bushels is the largest on record.

"The safest thing for all Pickaway County farmers," Mr. Boggs said, "is to stay with the AAA farm program."

CORN CUTTING PROVIDES JOBS FOR RELIEF MEN

Officials of the State Reemployment Service, conducting an office in the courthouse, reported

Tuesday that they have assigned 125 relief workers to corn cutting jobs and that jobs are awaiting 25 others in Pickaway County.

"Every farmer in the county seems to be wanting his corn cut at the same time," one of the officials said.

OFFICIAL SLATE IS CHOSEN FOR KIWANIS CLUB

Circleville Kiwanians, Monday evening, heard a slate of nominees announced for offices in the club during the next year, listened to High School Coach Roy M. Black discuss the outlook for the 1939 football season, and enjoyed spirituals sung by a quartet of Negro youths from the Dayton School for Negroes in Moselle, Miss.

The meeting, one of the best conducted by the club in recent weeks, was held at the Pickaway County Club. Next week the Lancaster Kiwanis Club will entertain the Circleville organization at a chicken dinner to be served at the Pickaway County Club. The dinner is the prize won by the Circleville softball team in a series with the Lancaster club.

Nominees for next year include: president, Ervin Leist and Don H. Walker; vice president, Dan McClain and Russell Imler; treasurer, Paul D. Miller; directors, (seven to be elected), Tom A. Renick, Ervin Leist, Renick Dunlap, C. E. Hill, Elmer Stetelton, Joe Burns, Glen Geib, the Rev. C. F. Bowman, Ted Schmidt, Sterling Lamb and George Bach. The election will be held in two weeks, Virgil Cress, president of the club, announced.

Coach Black in looking over the coming season declared that Circleville should have fairly successful year if all the boys on whose shoulders most of the load is expected to be placed are able to report for practice regularly. Several of the boys expected to form the nucleus for the varsity have not been reporting regularly, the coach said, thus it has been impossible to work out a first eleven.

Coach Black discussed the various teams Circleville will play this year, declaring that as a whole the opposition would be strong.

It was announced at the meeting that Renick Dunlap of Pickaway Township had been appointed as a member of the Committee on Agriculture of Kiwanis International for the next year. The appointment was made by Bennett O. Knudsen, international president of the organization. Mr. Dunlap recently attended the International Kiwanis convention in Boston during which he spoke at a committee meeting concerning agriculture in Kiwanis. The Circleville club has three farmer members, one of the few Kiwanis Clubs to have this distinction.

The mandamus proceeding of Floyd Ott and others against the county commissioners was taken under advisement Monday by Judge Meeker Terwilliger. Ott, Cecil Elliott, R. Z. and E. A. McCoy have filed the suit trying to force the commissioners to pay for a bridge over Hargus Creek in Washington Township. The plaintiffs claim that bridge, washed out July 4, was on a road belonging to the township, the commissioners claiming that it was a private highway and should not be repaired with public money.

Attorneys for each side are expected to submit briefs to the court.

FARMERS WARNED AGAINST TOO MUCH GRAIN PRICE OPTIMISM

GROWERS URGED TO STAND FIRM ON FED PLANS

Speculation Credited With Bringing About Climb In Markets

NEED FOR LOANS CITED

Growers Have Everything To Gain Under U. S. Program, Boggs Declares

Although market prices for corn and wheat have moved higher during the last few days because of the war in Europe, Pickaway County AAA officials Tuesday urged farmers to keep their feet on the ground and to follow crop control programs set up by the government.

Pickaway Countians should take stock of their position and analyze the situation before becoming unduly optimistic over market advances during the last several days," John G. Boggs, West Union Street, chairman of the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation committee, said. He explained that he believed the flurry in corn, wheat and hog markets to be caused by speculative gains. Wheat loans averaging 73 cents a bushel in Pickaway County plus the usual storage payment of seven cents will continue to be made to farmers who wish to hold their wheat, Mr. Boggs said.

"If market gains bring wheat above the loan rate sufficient to show a good profit, farmers may liquidate the loans. On the other hand, if the market slumps, farmers are protected since the wheat loan program puts a bottom on the slump for the farmer who has a wheat loan."

Mr. Boggs declared that he believed the AAA program flexible enough to make the necessary adjustments as fast as such are necessary. "Any expansion of the nation's farm plant is unwarranted at the present time," he stated. He went on to say that when increased production is necessary the program will provide for the necessary increase by raising individual farm allotments. The United States in 1939 harvested a crop from 55 million acres and for 1940 has a national wheat acreage allotment of 62 million acres, which farm officials say is adequate for all prospective needs.

The chairman pointed out that in 1914 at the outbreak of the World War, the world had a wheat supply of 3.7 billion bushels. This year the world supply of 5.2 billion bushels is the largest on record.

"The safest thing for all Pickaway County farmers," Mr. Boggs said, "is to stay with the AAA farm program."

CORN CUTTING PROVIDES JOBS FOR RELIEF MEN

Officials of the State Reemployment Service, conducting an office in the courthouse, reported Tuesday that they have assigned 125 relief workers to corn cutting jobs and that jobs are awaiting 275 others in Pickaway County.

"Every farmer in the county seems to be wanting his corn cut at the same time," one of the officials said.

It was pointed out that WPA workers may accept corn cutting jobs without damaging their relief roll status. The question of little white cards was explained. Each person assigned to a certain farm is given a white card. The employer is urged to keep this white card until the work is completed, then mail it to the Employment Service office.

There is no charge for service by this office, it being operated as a part of the state government.

100,000-YEAR-OLD BONES

Appear At Night Club

REESE and Marlowe, popular dance team which has been appearing in many of the Midwest's leading hotels, will appear Wednesday evening at Valley View, north of Circleville. Forrest Thompson, proprietor of Valley View, declares that the team is the most outstanding ever presented at Valley View.

COURT SELECTS TRIAL DATES OF CRIMINAL CASES

Judge Meeker Terwilliger of Common Pleas court, Tuesday, announced assignment of two trials in the criminal docket, the first of which will be September 25 when Fred Ryan of Harrisburg, Franklin County, faces the court on an indictment charging burglary and larceny.

Ryan is charged with stealing 720 pounds of corn last June 29 from J. M. Borr and Son, Ashville. The Franklin Countian will be represented by Attorney George S. Lutz, appointed by the court.

The second criminal action will start two days later when Alvis Williams of Orient Route 2, charged with forgery, goes to trial. Williams has employed Attorney J. W. Adkins, Jr., as his counsel.

The judge said that other criminal docket trials would be assigned following a conference with Prosecuting Attorney George E. Gerhardt.

OFFICIAL SLATE IS CHOSEN FOR KIWANIS CLUB

Circleville Kiwanians, Monday evening, heard a slate of nominees announced for offices in the club during the next year, listened to High School Coach Roy M. Black discuss the outlook for the 1939 football season, and enjoyed spirituals sung by a quartet of Negro youths from the Dayton School for Negroes in Moselle, Miss.

The meeting, one of the best conducted by the club in recent weeks, was held at the Pickaway Country Club. Next week the Lancaster Kiwanis Club will entertain the Circleville organization at a chicken dinner to be served at the Pickaway Country Club. The dinner is the prize won by the Circleville softball team in a series with the Lancaster club.

Nominees for next year include: president, Ervin Leist and Don H. Walker; vice president, Dan McClain and Russell Imler; treasurer, Paul D. Miller; directors, (seven to be elected), Tom A. Renick, Ervin Leist, Renick Dunlap, C. E. Hill, Elmer Steteborn, Joe Burns, Glen Geib, the Rev. C. F. Bowman, Ted Schmidt, Sterling Lamb and George Bach. The election will be held in two weeks, Virgil Cress, president of the club, announced.

Coach Black in looking over the coming season declared that Circleville should have a fairly successful year if all the boys on whose shoulders most of the load is expected to be placed are able to report for practice regularly.

Several of the boys expected to form the nucleus for the varsity have not been reporting regularly, the coach said, thus it has been impossible to work out a first eleven.

Coach Black discussed the various teams Circleville will play this year, declaring that as a whole the opposition would be strong.

It was announced at the meeting that Renick Dunlap of Pickaway Township had been appointed as a member of the Committee on Agriculture of Kiwanis International for the next year. The appointment was made by Bennett O. Knudsen, international president of the organization. Mr. Dunlap recently attended the International Kiwanis convention in Boston during which he spoke at a committee meeting concerning agriculture in Kiwanis. The Circleville club has three farmer members, one of the few Kiwanis Clubs to have this distinction.
